University of Florida College of Medicine

Adrian Tyndall, MD, MPH, FACEP, FAAEM, is interim dean of the University of Florida College of Medicine, which comprises 28 research-oriented basic and clinical science departments staffed by nearly 1,400 faculty members. He also is a professor and chair of the department of emergency medicine.

Dr. Tyndall is a graduate of the University of Maryland School of Medicine and completed his residency in emergency medicine at the University of Maryland Medical Center and the R Adams Cowley Shock Trauma Center. He earned an executive master's degree in health services management and health policy from Columbia University in New York.

Dr. Tyndall is board-certified in emergency medicine and is a fellow of the American College of Emergency Physicians. He joined the UF faculty in 2006 and two years later became chair of the department of emergency medicine, which includes the UF Health Shands E.R. and Level 1 Trauma Center, the UF Health Shands Children's Hospital's Pediatric E.R. and two freestanding emergency centers, located in northwest and southwest Gainesville. In his position, he oversees 53 faculty members and fellows, one of the largest destination emergency medicine residency training programs in the state, and the care involving more than 120,000 emergency patients annually.

Dr. Tyndall has served on the board of directors of UF Health Shands for four consecutive terms and has been a longstanding elected member of the UF Health Shands Medical Executive Committee. He serves on the board of directors and is the president-elect of the Florida College of Emergency Physicians. He is a member-at-large of the board of trustees of the Society for Academic Emergency Medicine Foundation. He also was named a 2018-2019 fellow of the Council of Deans of the Association of American Medical Colleges.
