

Communication of Dementia Diagnoses: Investigating Patient, Family, & Physician Experiences and Developing Best Practices

Share your experiences with giving dementia diagnoses.

We want to learn about healthcare provider experiences when giving diagnoses of dementia, including barriers and facilitators to giving dementia diagnoses, comfort with discussing dementia, and suggestions for optimal communication. This information will be used to help develop strategies for giving dementia diagnoses that reflect the challenges faced in daily clinical practice.

What's involved?

Volunteers will participate in a telephone interview about their experiences. Interviews will be scheduled at your convenience. Interviews will last no longer than one hour.

Are you eligible?

To participate, you must be:

- A healthcare provider who gives patients dementia diagnoses (rarely or commonly)
- Fluent in English or Spanish
- Able and willing to participate in a phone interview

If you're interested in learning more or participating, call or email a member of the study team:

Noheli Gamez, MHA
Study Coordinator
Noheli.gamez@neurology.ufl.edu
352-733-2419

Compensation

Participants will receive:

- $25 gift card mailed after completion of the interview

Funded by the Florida Department of Health Ed and Ethel Moore Alzheimer's Disease Research Program